

The main reason for purchasing a lightning warning device is for lightning warning. While there may be additional valuable information provided for safety, like heat warnings, precise lightning warnings are imperative.

Thor Guard has utilized over 50 years of experience to continually advance our older technology to improve our systems. We do not use any delayed and inaccurate detection networks and we never rely on any internet connectivity to operate. Perry Weather products have no local detection technology but relies on someone else's network to receive internet-delivered lightning data every five minutes. Yes, our software is fantastic, but it is developed to fully utilize our advanced prediction technology to deliver instantaneous, site-specific lightning, severe storm and tornado warnings.

Perry Weather has provided, on their website, some intentionally misleading "facts" and these need to be corrected in a truthful manner. The comparison to follow is just that - factual and truthful.

Incidentally, once a purchase order is received at the factory, the installation of a Thor Guard system rarely takes more than a month. Could we make this delivery faster? Perhaps. Unlike Perry Weather products, our lightning system goes through rigorous testing and calibration so that the customer receives a perfect product. No off the shelf parts in our house! Thor Guard circuit boards, esoteric parts, along with our incredible engineers, programmers and meteorologists are always looking to improve what we produce.

Price should be irrelevant when it comes to safety. Honesty should matter too. So why would anyone purchase a product from a company who lies about their competition?

The following comparison should open your eyes and may make you wonder...
